

ABSTRACT

A fused silica pellicle for use on photomasks having increased durability and improved transmission uniformity and birefringence properties. The pellicle is to be intimately secured to the patterned surface of a photomask.